

Manager Research Morningstar

Morningstar is one of the largest independent sources of fund, equity and credit data and research in the world and our advocacy for investors' interests is the foundation of the company.

Morningstar has a requirement for an Analyst, Manager Research to produce qualitative research and ratings on fixed income strategies that aim to better inform individuals, intermediaries and institutional investors. Our goal is to empower investors success by providing independent and objective recommendations. The position requires a passion for investing, along with strong analytical, presentation and writing skills in English. Morningstar has an established presence across Europe, with more than 25 analysts across EMEA and they are part of a 130-strong global manager research team who work closely with each other.

Job Responsibilities

- To research and critically assess fixed income strategies based on Morningstar's qualitative research framework
- Communicate our research view to investors via the assignment of ratings and writing succinct and reader friendly research reports
- To play a key role in preparing for and running fund manager interviews
- Support the global thought leadership agenda by writing longer research pieces

Qualifications

- At least three years' of experience in an investment research setting, with fixed income experience desirable but not essential
- Able to work within an interdisciplinary team that includes investment experts, qualitative researchers, data analysts, and software developers
- Superior oral verbal and written English communication

Morningstar is guided in this recruitment procedure by Ingrid Reichmann and Christine Changoer, partners at Partners at Work. They will conduct the first interviews with potential candidates. You can read the full profile and upload your CV and motivation via our website: <https://partnersatwork.nl/vacatures/>

Please contact Partners at Work for more information; 035 - 548 0760.